

This curriculum series reflects the collective experience of Eden faculty during the past 30 years of providing comprehensive, individualized services for children and adults with autism. Employing a hands-on approach, the series includes practical strategies with every teaching program provided, and each program has been successfully implemented in the lives of individuals and families served by Eden. The Self-Care domain was created in order to address the specific needs of individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders in this area. Whereas a typically developing student would learn many of the skills within this domain through incidental teaching opportunities, students with developmental disabilities, regardless of the domain, require a structured teaching approach that combines rote instruction and repetition. It is critical therefore, that skills in this area not be remanded solely to incidental teaching opportunities, but rather viewed as a crucial component to a well-rounded IEP (Individualized Educational Plan).
