

We must always be wary of who we get married to. Divorce is not easy. The material cost is the simple part. The emotional toll for those involved including any children is huge. What drives a once madly in love couple to believe their only option for the future is to go their separate ways? The answer may shock you. The devil is in the detail. When you take your vows on the wedding day, how do you know of any hidden agenda on the part of the other person? How do you know that the smiling face staring back at you with love and admiration will not be the monster in a few years to come? What do you do then? This book answers these questions and more in very practical ways. No one has to die for love. No one has to kill in the name of love. Hate is not the opposite of love. Love should have no past tense. It is forever. An understanding of this means you live your life free of any guilt or threat. People in love should never have to fall out of love. In the real life, what causes the strain in relationships are quite mundane things like financial management and even cleanliness. Addictions do play a role as well, addictions developed before or after the vows were exchanged. How we grow matters. If you allow yourself to become an addict, you are basically opening the door to the devil that will wreck your home one day. This is why teenagers must read this book carefully. Those demons that plague homes were introduced or let in years before the home was thought of. Many date too early these days. As a result, there are many teens and young adults with kids even before they meet the one. There also all manner of vices and habits picked up from various partners. Many never really finalize a past relationship. They simply move on to the next one while the past one weaves in and out when convenient. To some this is the variety that spices up their lives. It is a game to them until they decide to settle down only to realize the past will not leave. What do they do? Are there demons in real life? Is the devil real? Is the world of pornography a creation of these demons to enslave the souls of men? The truth will shock you. You can be free if you want. The question is how you define your freedom. To be enslaved to any habit or vice is bondage. The longer you stay in that prison the harder you will have to fight to get out. Unless you have the right knowledge. Religion creates guilt in the minds of some. To others it is a fabrication that died ages ago. Some have visited psychics in search of the one and only. Others have visited mediums in search of a loved one long dead. Are these to be regarded as part of religion? Are demons involved in these exchanges or are there really men and women with abilities to communicate with the future and the dead? Look before you leap. Retrace your steps if you have made a wrong move. The earlier the better. Put things off and more people suffer unnecessarily. Life is not a place for those who refuse to think before they act. You will make senseless mistakes if you live like that. Using your brain will not take the fun out of life. It will actually safeguard that fun. Ask those paying child support simply because they had so much mindless fun or got married to the wrong person at a time. This book was carefully designed to be understood and to guide without any complications. You will get the tools you need to move forward. Life is not as hard as people make it to be. Get the basics right and the rest is easy. Mess up the basics and you will pay. It is all about the basics. Faithfulness. Love. Honesty. Decency. Loyalty. Accountability. Cleanliness. Organisation. Time management. Productivity. Happiness. Beliefs. Understanding. Kindness. Freedom from addictions. But are these not the very things we struggle to adhere to? Develop yourself and you will be a better person. Do not and you will be a nuisance. Marriage will work if both have spent time developing themselves.
